Park Commissioner Waldo Hutchins wants the East lilver Park lighted at

"I had no ides that it was left in darkness at night. I shall see about it at the very next meeting of the Board.

"All the parks are supposed to be lighted, and there is no good reason why the East River Park should not have electric light or gas at least.

"That park is a small one, but there is a movement to extend it to Ninetieth street. Why the work is not hurried, I don't know, because the present accommodations are totally inadequate for the people who use it. However, the Park Commission cannot do much towards securing lights for the park. We can only recommend to the Bureau of Lamps and Gas that the park be lighted, and this I think I can promise you the Commissioners will do." When asked about the repairs so badly needed the Commissioner was just as frank and outspoken. Many of these details are overleoked the East River Park as speedily as possible, and I hope we will get the lights there too. " I believe in lighting the park, because then there is no inducement for thieves or persons of ill repute to visit them. We had many complaints of such bad characters from Mount Morris Park until the electric lights were put in there, and its rays drove away the evil doers," coneluded the Commissioner.

An Evening World reporter made a canvass this morning of the district surrounding the pretty East River Park, which extends from Eighty-fourth to Eighty-sixth street and from Avenue B to the East River, and found the people eager to have that park lighted after nightfall.

There are other and graver reasons than those mentioned in this paper yesterday why the park should not be shrouded in gloom at night. The park is the open air resort for all the people living between Seventy-fifth and One Hundred and Fifth streets, east of Third avenue. The maority of these people with their growing families live in flats, and the park is their only oasis in the desert of Summer heat where they may get fresh air.

During the day, or when the air is flooded with moonlight, the park is stated to be all that it ought to be. It is well strikes on the city public school buildsupplied with benches, and from early morning until the sun goes down hundreds of mothers, with infants in arms or in baby carriages, throng the park and drink in great draughts of the pure air Delegates, this morning, a communithat blows across it from the river. "The Park Commissioners seem to be neglecting flie little place," he continued.

""Then there is a heap of old building material right in the prettiest spot in the park. We used to kick about it at first, and promises were made that it would be removed; but there it is still, and the people have, against their will, grown accurstomed to it," he concluded.

Last Wednesday Carey had gotten of an Eighth avenue car when he bumped into a young man who was just coming out of a hallway with an armful of clothes. The man turned his face around and it was De Foy.

Carey nabbed him on the instant and pulled him into the hallway from which he had just emerged.

Taking the bundle from De Foy, the detective found that it contained a handsome black lace and silk dress.

De Foy was taken to the stationhouse where he weakened and confessed his theft. The detective went to the house at 146 Macdougal street and there arrested Allard and Guion. A great quantity of stolen clothing was recovered, and hundreds of pawn tickets were secured from the prisoners.

On moonlight nights there are just as many mothers with their little ones there as during the day; but when the moon is not on duty to do the work which the Park Commissioners should attend to the Park is often given over to the rule of a rather bad element.

When it was lighted at night no hoodlums frequented it, and it fulfilled the purpose for which the paople wanted it—a place where they could in a measure escape from the heat of Summer, and necessarily the evening was the time at which they derived the most benefit from it.

Now all this is changed. On a recent evening an old man fell down the flight of stone stairs mentioned in yesterday.
